

COMMUNITY AGREEMENT

- These are platonic meetings – the intention is not to meet a romantic partner.
- We are here to find commonality through connection – one conversation at a time. Respect is key.
  - We acknowledge that we all have different lived experiences.
  - We acknowledge that we all have biases, and we consciously reflect on where our own biases come from.
  - We set and respect boundaries. It's ok to say: "I don't feel comfortable talking about this."

TIPS

- We have lists of conversational prompts to help you get started. How about starting with a story related to your name?
- Set a timer on your phone to know when the hour has passed, but check in with each other after 30 min.
- You may be paired with someone who has very different opinions to yours. That is the point! Let's embark on this social experiment with an open mind and an open heart.
- Awkwardness and discomfort are part of the process. Be curious when these feelings show up. These moments could be quite insightful.
- Please let us know if you feel you need help de-escalating a tense conversation.
- Remember, this is just a one-hour conversation. Have fun meeting a stranger.
